4- Training Content and Context:

The Master's in Jurisprudence (Fiqh) - Maliki School and its Foundations - is one of the specializations in the Sharia field in the second cycle of education. It provides students with a range of qualitative knowledge that qualifies them to continue their educational journey in the three phases of the LMD system. The content of the program revolves around Maliki jurisprudence in its various chapters and doctrines, as well as the science of the origins of jurisprudence, its sources, and the objectives of Sharia and diligence according to the perspective of the Maliki school.

5- Training Objectives: This training aims to:

- Meet the desire of many students to specialize in Maliki jurisprudence, deepen their study, and acquire knowledge of its principles and branches.
- Serve as a jurisprudential reference in the country in terms of issuing fatwas, education, preaching, and guidance, with an openness to other sects.
- Promote the integration of jurisprudential knowledge within the Maliki current, considering the existence of this specialization in other academic institutions in the country.

6- Targeted Training Competencies:

- Qualifying bachelor's degree holders to pursue academic pathways (Master's and Ph.D.).
- Acquiring the competence to serve the Maliki heritage in general and the Algerian heritage in particular.
- Providing state institutions with qualified scientific skills.
- Establishing a connection between the university and the surrounding environment.

7- Local, Regional, and National Employability Capacities:

Employment opportunities can be found in the university, education departments, religious affairs departments, institutes for imam training, and consultative committees (El Ifta).
